Steamer Bellaventure Arrives
With 69 Bodies and 50 of the Survivors.

THIRTEEN IN HOSPITAL

Grievous Tale of Death on the Ice Floes; Southern Cross Still Missing.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., April 4.—The steamer Bellaventure arrived at dusk today bearing sixty-nine of the dead and fifty of the crippled survivors of the disasters that overtook the hunters of the steamer Newfoundland on the ice floes near Belle Isle straits in last Tuesday's blizzard.

Thirteen of the living were taken to the hospital in a critical condition. Several others were seriously ill, and all but one of the remainder bore the scars of their forty-eight hours' exposure to the arctic gale, in which seventy-seven of their companions met death. The injured survivor was stricken blind after being picked up, but it is expected he will recover his sight.

Five thousand persons, many of them relatives of the victims, had lined every vantage point along the harbor front all day, waiting for the Bellaventure's arrival and for some news from the missing sealer Southern Cross, carrying 170 men. Not a word has been heard from the latter vessel since she was seen driving before the storm on Tuesday morning. Hopes, aroused by reports that she had made one of the numerous harbors along the southern

Southern Cross Missing.

There is still faith in many quarters that the Southern Cross, the stout steamer that Lieutenant Shackleton, the British explorer, used on one of his antarctic expeditions, weathered the blizzard. No wreckage has been reported anywhere along the coast. It is pointed out that the Southern Cross is a slow ship, able to steam only five knots an hour under the best conditions, and if driven far by the gale it would take her some time to work back into communication with others of the fleet.

In the absence of Governor Davidson and Premier Morris, the acting premier, Mr. Bennett, directed the work of caring for the dead and wounded. Every physician and nurse in the city volunteered for service. They were aided by squads from the naval reserve ship Calypso and various military organizations. The new Grenfell institute was turned into a morgue.

Disaster Unavoidable.

The disaster which overtook the Newfoundland's hunters was unavoidable, according to Captain Randall of the Bellaventure. Tuesday dawned somewhat overcast, but with no hint of blizzard conditions, he said, so that it was permissible to put men on the ice after seals. Four ships were within sight of him, the Newfoundland, Stephano, Florizel and Bonaventure. These had a total of a thousand men on the ice. His own hunters had encountered a small body of seals soon after leaving the ship and were out for only an hour. The storm broke with typical arctic suddenness. The hunters from the Bonaventure and the Florizel were fortunate enough to reach their ships safely. The Stephano's men, being nearer the Florizel than their own vessel, hurried on board her. The Stephano, meanwhile, steamed toward the spot where her crew had been seen before the storm broke. This took her away from the Newfoundland's group who were far from their own ship. As soon as the Stephano was notified by the Florizel's wireless of the safety of her men, she headed back into the storm to pick up the Newfoundland's hunters.

Kept Whistle Going.
It was impossible to see a ship's length ahead into the snow curtain, and when the Stephano's captain thought he was within a mile of the stranded hunters he lay to and kept his whistle going in the hope that they might be guided toward him. As hours passed and not a man reported he concluded all had reached their own ship. But the Newfoundland had no wireless, and all that day and all Wednesday, while the blizzard raged with unabated fury, the fleet remained in ignorance of the fate of the 150 men marooned on the floes.

On Thursday the weather cleared and the Bellaventure was making ready to start her men after seals again when a lookout in the crew's nest reported men on the ice. Captain Randall immediately ordered every available man from the ship to the rescue. The main party of castaways were four miles away, over a broken field of ice. The Bellaventure was driven toward them with all possible speed, but so bad were ice conditions that it required nine hours to cover the four miles.

Many in Stupor.
In the meantime his men had reached the castaways. Only a few of the hardest were conscious and able to help themselves. Many were in a stupor. Some were stricken with ice blindness. Many bodies were found frozen so fast in the ice that pickaxes were necessary to chop them out. Two of the survivors were nearly mad from their own sufferings and from grief. Each had watched a brother die in his arms.

By good fortune thirty of the Newfoundland's hunters who had not strayed far from the vessel had been able to reach their ships else the death toll would have been greater. In the meantime the Stephano had been able to work within striking distance and was able to pick up a few of the survivors and recover a few bodies.

After the snow-filled hollows had been searched for more bodies the Bellaventure turned her prow homeward, battling severe ice conditions and a second gale nearly all the way to port.

BRYAN RIDICULED BY HOUSE MEMBERS

Debate on Legislative, Executive and Judicial Bill Takes Wide Range.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The uniforms of state department footmen, their compensation, the Panama tolls fight, Secretary Bryan's salary and his Chautauqua lectures, and half a dozen other subjects, occupied the house today during consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill.

The estimates included provision for a coachman and footmen for the Bryan carriage, which provoked comment. Representative Bryan of South Carolina, in charge of the bill, read from the Bible the story of the fiery furnace, and said Secretary Bryan had come through a furnace of criticism, sarcasm and ridicule with his hair unscathed and his body unscathed.

Representative Humphrey of Washington offered an amendment to increase Secretary Bryan's salary. It was ruled out of order, but Mr. Humphrey got a chance to talk.

"We ought to have a secretary of state," he said, "who would not have to sell something to England and violate his party platform in order to extricate himself and the country from the difficulties into which it has fallen through the mismanagement of the present secretary." Representative Foster of Illinois said that "the people are with the president and his cabinet," and predicted Democratic success in the congressional election next fall.

When an appropriation was reached for "drivers' equipment," for the state department, Representative Mondell of Wyoming said Secretary Bryan was undoubtedly planning to put uniforms on his coachmen.

"Whether the British union jack should be displayed on the front or the back of the uniform is a matter of taste," he said. "But that it should be prominently displayed is without question. In view of the recent surrender to Great Britain on the canal tolls question."

KILLS WOMAN AND COMMITS SUICIDE
STOCKTON, Cal., April 4.—Mrs. Ellis E. Harbert, wife of a prominent physician of this city, was shot and killed today by a Japanese servant while she was in one of the upper bedrooms of her home in the suburbs. After killing Mrs. Harbert the slayer locked the door to the room and busied himself gathering up silverware and other valuables. The crime was not discovered until tonight, when Dr. Harbert returned home. Finding no one about the living rooms he made a search of the home, only to find his wife's body, stiff and cold, stretched upon the bedroom floor. The servant, who is said to be an ex-convict, sentenced from this city, later took refuge in the basement of the home, where he killed himself as he was about to be arrested. When the body was removed it was found that the Japanese was only partly clad.
